

FATALLY INJURED IN TRUCK CRASH

Navy Information Given At This Newspaper Office

At the suggestion of Secretary of Navy Knox, Wm. Semmler, editor of The News-Bulletin, has been made Navy Editor of The News-Bulletin to help the Navy in giving ambitious local young men information about the opportunities the "Two-Ocean" Navy offers for technical training and advancement as they serve their country in its emergency.

According to an announcement made public in Washington, a limited number of additional men between the ages of 17 and 50 will be given a chance by enlistment in the Navy or Naval Reserve, to get to the top, with big pay, in jobs which by their aptitude and as a result of examination they show themselves fitted, from among nearly 50 different trades and vocations. These include such callings as aviation machinist, dental technician, photographer, diesel engineer, radio technician, electrician, welder, storekeeper, and baker. Enlisted men may also qualify for commissions as officers.

Beginning this week, the Navy plans for a limited time to accept new qualified men for training. These men will be sent to one of four Naval Training Stations and may have a chance to go to a Navy Trade School even before assignment to the fleet. During this period they will be given regular Navy pay and the Navy's free schooling is valued at hundreds of dollars.

In outlining the many advantages offered by enlistment in the United States Navy, Mr. Semmler, Navy Editor of the News-Bulletin said, "It is possible for a bright young man to increase his pay seven times during his first enlistment and he can earn as much as $126 a month. This monthly figure is actually worth much more when it is remembered that the man has few living expenses and is provided with the finest of medical and dental care.

"You have all your food and lodging and also your original outfit of clothing provided by Uncle Sam free," Mr. Semmler continued. "In addition there are free sports and entertainment—even to the latest Hollywood pictures. On top of this you get free travel and adventure in colorful places—a thing few civilians can afford.

"Navy men are a 'hand picked' lot. Candidates must be men of more than average intelligence and ambition of fine moral character and must have the written recommendation of at least two local town people."

As Navy Editor, Mr. Semmler has received from Washington a supply of free illustrated booklets for all men interested and in addition, will welcome inquiries from young men who wish to look into the new and greater opportunities the Navy now offers for training for future civilian careers as they serve their country in its emergency.

What Hybrid Is Best To Plant?

The University of Illinois Agricultural Experiment Station attempts to answer the following question that many Illinois farmers ask: "Which is the best hybrid for me to plant on my farm next spring?" Each year the Agricultural Experiment Station runs an unbiased yield test comparing different hybrids in the same field under similar soil and weather conditions. These hybrids are carefully compared for yield, quality, standability and moisture. The hybrids are then given an all around performance rating.

Last year the University Experiment Station tested 386 hybrids and 26 open pollinated varieties. The hybrids were tested in 12 different fields thruout the entire state from Northern to Southern Illinois.

The Pioneer Hi-Bred Corn Co., of Illinois had twice as many top ranking hybrids in the unbiased 1940 official Illinois Corn Performance Tests as all other producers combined.

A copy of the University of Illinois Corn Performance Bulletin can be had from your Farm Advisor or by writing to the University of Illinois Agricultural Experiment Station. Ask for Corn Performance Test bulletin 474.

$22,546.11 Recovered By Bremen Twp. Relief Audit

The following report shows how the Bremen Township Relief Audit recovered $22,546.11 of the over $56,000 deficit uncovered by the audit. The recoveries listed were thru refunds for excessive payments on bonds, creditors claims disproved and cancelled, etc.

As shown in the following condensed statement cash settlements were made totaling over $12,334.55. The actual benefits accruing to Bremen township to date without litigation have been $22,546.11. The total cost of the audit was $9,465.50. Benefits received to date in excess of cost of the audit have been $13,080.61, proving that the cost of the audit was one of the best investments the township ever made as the amount recovered would never have been made, no doubt, had it not been for the audit.

There are additional benefits to be received, as time permits, of several thousand dollars besides the $13,080.61 as shown in the subjoined report. The Audit was made by the Central States Audit Co., under the direction of its owner, Mr. W. C. Salmon, C. P. A., and member of the National Association of Cost Accountants with offices at 30 N. LaSalle, Chicago, Illinois. Following is the summarized report:

MOKENA CIVIC GROUP FAVORS LOCAL LIBRARY

The Mokena Civic Association had a full program of activities to report at their meeting Tuesday evening.

For sometime the Association has been discussing the establishment of a local public library. Chas. Rose reported that he had taken the matter up with the WPA and learned that the WPA would pay the salary of a librarian and janitor and furnish 800 volumes of books if a local tax paying body will pay the rent of a suitable building for a library, heat and light and pay for shelving needed. The matter was left to a committee to act on and report back at the December meeting.

The Association was also keenly interested in a fine civic centralized Christmas tree lighting plan as suggested by Mr. Chas. Rose of the Public Service Co. The Association is also going to pay in $10 toward the prize money to be raised in the village to pay for cash prizes for the best residential and business Christmas lighting effects. The Association voted $25 for a Christmas tree or Christmas design.

Reports were given that the old head stones in the Pioneer Memorial Cemetery which were lying on the ground, have been set in concrete bases. The Association is also considering the purchase and erection of a plaque in memory and honor of the Revolutionary and Civil War veterans who are buried in this cemetery.

The Association has rented the old St. John church barn and is storing the Association's home coming equipment therein.

The Association has also invested $300 in Defense Savings Bonds and voted to donate $10 toward the local Red Cross Chapter Roll Call.

Robt. Geuther reported that nine boys called on him last Wednesday evening and asked him to be their Boy Scout Leader. He said he has been giving the matter serious thought but had not definitely decided what to do. The Association agreed to give him their best support if he did take up the leadership.

MOKENA CIVIC ASSO., LADIES NIGHT DANCE TO BE HELD NOV. 29

The Mokena Civic Association again calls attention to Ladies Night Dance and party.

Due to the large attendance expected at Ladies Night dance and party to be held Saturday night, Nov. 29 it has been decided to hold this event at St. Mary's hall instead of Hatch's hall as originally planned.

Remember the entire town is invited to attend so don't make other arrangements for this night. Ladies don't forget this is your night to make the man take you.

There will be absolutely no charge of any kind. Dancing and eats free. Lets make this a big nite in Mokena.

—Walt Olson, chair.

Making Surgical Dressings In Mokena Village Hall

One of the busiest places in town every Monday afternoon is the board room of the Mokena Village Hall which does double duty as the local work room of the Mokena branch of the American Red Cross. A number of enthusiastic ladies gather there between the hours of 1:30 and 3:30. They turn materials into surgical dressings by the hundred. Knitting garments for the service men in cold climates is another of their big jobs.

All ladies interested in participating in this humanitarian work are invited to drop in at the work room any Monday afternoon.

MOKENA PTA WILL HOLD LUNCHEON

The first of a series of luncheons planned by the Ways and Means Committee of the PTA was held at the home of Pres. M. Thiel Monday.

The food was provided by the Public Service and the profits of the luncheon flowed into the PTA treasury. Miss Baum of the Home Service department prepared a delicious menu and was assisted by the co-hostesses Mesdames Chas. Rose and Arthur Shoop. After the luncheon a short film entitled Fun in the Kitchen was shown. Don Wilson, the popular announcer of the Jack Benny radio show whose hobby is cooking, gave a few demonstrations of the culinary art. The film was enjoyed immensely. Mrs. Edw. Marshall of Marley Victim of Tragic Accident

Mrs. Edward Marshall, 64 years old of Marley, was fatally injured in an auto, truck crash at the junction of routes 52 and 45 about 5:30 Monday evening when the car in which she was riding and which was being driven by Mr. Marshall crashed into the rear end of a truck which it is said did not display any tail lights.

Mrs. Marshall suffered chest injuries and both arms and legs were broken. She was taken to the Bran-non Memorial hospital in Manhattan where she died at three o'clock Tuesday morning.

Riding with Mr. and Mrs. Marshall was Mrs. James Casson of Canton Farm who sustained a broken arm.

The accident occurred while the Marshalls were homeward bound from Kempton, Illinois where they had been visiting with Mrs. Marshall's brother, Harrison Haley.

Surviving are the husband, Edward Marshall, one sister, Mrs. Stanley Coe of Homer township, one brother, Harrison Haley of Kempton, Ill., two nephews, Donald Haley, Dwight, Merle Haley of Kempton, a niece Mrs. Mervin Moore of Marley and other relatives and a large circle of friends.

Mrs. Marshall nee Emma Haley had resided here all her life.

Funeral services were held yesterday (Thursday) morning at 10:30 o'clock from the Chamberlain & Sloan Funeral home in Joliet with Rev. Thomas E. Hagood of the Marley community church officiating. Burial was made in the Marshall cemetery.

The deepest sympathy of the entire community goes out to the sorely grief stricken family whose day of Thanksgiving was turned into a day of sorrow by this terrible tragedy.

GEORGE SCHREIBER HONORED BY TINLEY PARK BUSINESS MEN

The Tinley Park Business Men's Association combined business with pleasure Monday evening when they held their regular business meeting in the home of Mr. Geo. Schreiber at the latter's invitation. Following the business session, the group celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of Mr. Schreiber's arrival in the United States from Germany. They presented him with a fine wool sweater as a memento of the occasion and also voted him in as a life long member of the Association without payment of dues.

Mr. Schreiber was visibly effected by these tokens of friendship and expressed his thanks.

At the close of the business session the rest of the evening was given over to playing cards. Refreshments and an abundance of eats were served. The affair was climaxed when a gorgeous anniversary cake a gem of the local baker's art, was brought in and served.

The meeting was thoroughly enjoyed by all present and they wish Mr. Schreiber may have many more opportunities of enjoying the fellowship of the members of the Tinley Park Business Men's Association.

Aristocracy of Farm and Ranch Gather In Bid for Top Honors at Live Stock Show

(Special to Western Newspaper Union.)

CHICAGO. — Aristocracy of farm and ranch will foregather in a spectacular display at America's largest live stock and farm show, the International Live Stock Exposition, held this year November 29 to December 6 in the International amphitheater at the Chicago Stock Yards.

Famous throughout the world, the show celebrates its 42nd anniversary as the country's premier showing of the meat-making breeds of live stock, draft and pleasure horses, and farm crops. Under present conditions, it also takes world precedence for size and importance among all events of this kind.

Officials of the exposition report that earlier predictions that the total number of animals to be exhibited this year would exceed the 12,000 mark have been realized with the closing of entries. A final tally of the exhibits discloses a huge increase over last year's entry.

It is reported that an all-time record entry has been set for three principal breeds of beef cattle that will be featured—the Shorthorn, the Hereford, and the Aberdeen-Angus, which yield the main supply of the nation's finest meats.

Swine Exhibits Large.

There are also big increases in the swine exhibits this year, with six of the eight breeds in this division showing large advances over 1940, and the total is the highest in many years. The draft horse entry of approximately 400 head, and the sheep entry of nearly 1,000 head, compare closely with the showing in these two departments at the 1940 show.

Visitors at the coming exposition will see 1,000 or more of the finest horses of this country and Canada which will include top weight draft horses of five different breeds as well as riding and driving horses that will be exhibited in the famous International Horse show which will be held every evening and on four afternoons during the eight-day run of the exposition.

Owners of the leading stables of three and five gaited saddle horses, harness horses and ponies, and roadster horses have listed their finest specimens for these competitions. Each of the International Horse Show programs will also feature trick riding and driving performances, a demonstration of sheep herding by the national champion sheep dog, parades of prize-winning draft horses and beef cattle, led by a kilted band of bagpipers, plus the thunderous paces of huge six-in-hands of draft horses, shown by the packers and brewers.

Illinois Top Entries.

Illinois leads all of the 35 states and Canada from which entries are received, the management announces. Prospective exhibitors from 60 Illinois counties have registered entries. Iowa is second among all the states in county representation, with entries from 51 counties, followed by Indiana with exhibits to come from 33 counties.

All past records have been surpassed in the number of prime steers, lambs, and pigs exhibited in the junior classes of the show by farm boys and girls from 10 to 20 years old. The entry is over 700 head, an increase of nearly 50 per cent over any past year. A tribute to the skill of these young people is the spectacular success of one of their number at each of the past three successive shows, when the grand champion steer over all breeds was exhibited on two occasions by a girl and once by a boy, all under 18 years old; and six times within the past 13 years the grand champion steer has been exhibited by youths under 21.

The 12,000 or more animals that will be exhibited this year by owners from nearly every state in the Union and province of Canada will compete for awards that carry with them more than $100,000 in cash prizes. It will require the services of 65 of the continent's leading live stock, horse show, and farm crops authorities to name the winners.

Canadians Will Judge.

Chief judging task goes to W. L. Carlyle, noted Canadian stockman of Calgary, Alta., and to J. Charles Yule of Carstairs, Alta., who will together judge the individual steer classes consisting of well over a thousand entries.

Mr. Carlyle was formerly head of the animal husbandry department at the University of Wisconsin and was successively dean of the Colorado, Oklahoma, and Idaho State agricultural colleges. He is now manager of the duke of Windsor's Canadian ranch near Calgary.

Mr. Yule is well known to American stockmen as the judge of the steer classes at the International show last year.

The climax of their work, after three days of preliminary judging, will be the naming of the grand champion steer from among the thousand or more beeves that will be shown for this honor by scores of cattle experts, young and old.

It will be the third time in the past 40 years that a Canadian has judged the steer classes at Chicago. At all other times, cattle experts from England, Scotland and South America have officiated.

Six other Canadians will act as judges this year, five in the sheep classes of the exposition, and one in the small grain classes of the International Grain and Hay show, the latter ranking as the world's largest competitive farm crops show. This feature is being held for the twenty-third time in connection with the Chicago exposition.

Grain and Hay Show.

The crops contest annually attracts a showing of several thousand samples of the current year's harvests in competitive classes that include corn, small grain, seed and hay. Growers of the championship crop samples in each division are named "Kings" of that particular crop for the year. Officials of this division announce that championship exhibitors will be guests of honor of the exposition at a banquet for champion growers to be given at the Saddle and Siroin club, famous stockmen's club at the Chicago Stock Yards.

Farm youth will take an important part in the programs of the opening week-end. As a pre-opening event, championship teams of boys and girls from 20 or more states will compete on Friday, November 28, in a Junior Live Stock

Judging contest, in which finalist winners in state-wide judging contests earlier in the season will compete for national honors. The contestants will all be either 4-H or Future Farmers of America club members of high school age.

The Chicago Association of Commerce will award three agricultural college scholarships to the three highest ranking individual participants in this contest; and one of the large Chicago packers will present $100 scholarships to the three individuals who score highest in judging cattle, sheep and swine.

A similar contest is being staged for teams of agricultural college students. Last year 31 state agricultural colleges sent teams to compete in this event which has been a feature of the International Live Stock exposition since the initial show in 1900. A great many of the leading live stock judges and live stock farmers of the present day obtained their first actual judging experience in training for and competing in these contests.

4-H Club Congress.

For the past 19 years, the National 4-H Club congress has been held annually in connection with the Chicago show. A permanent 4-H Club building stands adjacent to the International Amphitheater at the Chicago Stock Yards, where the winning state exhibits in 4-H work will be on display during the week of the exposition.

It is anticipated that 1,450 farm boys and girls from 45 states will take part in the Twentieth National congress, representing top winners of the current year in state-wide contests in which 1,420,000 rural youths, now engaged in 4-H work, participated in the preliminaries.

They will visit Chicago on free all-expense trips to compete in contests that will determine whom among them will be the national champions of the current year in 4-H accomplishment. According to officials of the congress, 11 national contests are planned this year.

Most of these events will be judged during the opening week-end of the show, and the winners will be introduced to exposition visitors at the International Horse show. At this time, the entire congress delegation and their leaders, numbering over 1,600, will parade.

Leading them will be a team of eight-ton-weight draft horses, featuring four matched pairs of geldings, each symbolic of the four-fold club standard: "Head—Heart—Hands—and Health."

Highlighting the procession and ceremony will be two 4-H bands, one from Douglas county, Nebraska, consisting of 60 members who have completed their fourth season of concert work—the other from Calumet county, Wisconsin, a band of about the same size that has been organized for 10 years.

New features of the 1941 congress will include a 4-H wool exhibit of fleeces produced in sheep and lamb projects, and a Boys' Sheep Shearing contest. This event will be open to any youth under 21 years old who has had some previous shearing experience. It will be held as an adjunct to the National Sheep Shearing contest, which has been a feature of the Chicago show for the past four years.

Sheep Shearing Title.

Top professional shearers and amateurs from all parts of the country annually compete in this event for the national shearing title. Awards are made on the basis of speed, plus efficiency in handling sheep and fleece, and absence of cuts.

The International sales of prime beeves, lambs and hogs are famous sources of supply for the choice meat cuts in demand for the holiday trade. Hotels, restaurants, the railroads, and clubs, the country over, are the principal buyers.

Iowa Couples Cross

Line for Wedding

BETHANY, MO. — The marriage license trade is booming in this northern Missouri town since Iowa passed a law requiring prospective newlyweds to take a blood test before they can get an Iowa license.

A record for one day was established when 19 marriage licenses were issued.

Treasure Hunters Range the Hudson

They Hunt for 'Gentleman Johnny's' Lost Gold.

ALBANY, N. Y. — An abnormally low water level in the Hudson has revived tales of British bullion lying in the river bed.

Legend says that "Gentleman Johnny" Burgoyne dropped a golden treasure into the river to avoid confiscation when he surrendered to American Revolutionary forces.

The story, wholly unsupported by any evidence, places the British general's cache somewhere near Stillwater north of Albany.

Numerous searching parties have sought the legendary wealth without success. Recently a group was reported pooling funds to conduct a scientific hunt.

The gold is said to have been placed in gun barrels, which were then sealed and dropped into the water.

More credence can be given reports of other findings recalling the British invasion of the Colonies from Canada. The lowered waters reveal shadowy hulks below the surface, which rivermen assert are the ruins of bridges and barges constructed for passage of the troops.

On the shores near Stillwater, residents have unearthed parts of cannon balls through the years. Whether they were British or American equipment is a question. Some writers insist they were American stores rolled into the river under a "scorched earth" campaign conducted by Gen. Philip J. Schuyler.

Swain, 11, Runs Away to Reunion With Girl, 8

ST. LOUIS. — Pretty Peggy Randall spent her summer vacation in St. Louis and she won a constant and devoted admirer in George McLean Jr.

When Peggy left for her home in Memphis, George promised, "I'll come to see you as soon as possible."

That was a big promise. You see, George is only 11 years old and Peggy is eight.

But George kept his word, even though he had to run away from home, outwit several detectives and take a 320-mile train ride by himself to do it.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. George McLean, finding him missing, notified police.

Detectives at Union station spotted a boy in his Sunday best, carefully going over an array of dolls at the toy counter. He bought one for $3.

"Hello," a detective greeted him.

"Where are you going?"

"To Memphis," the boy replied.

"They're expecting me. I've got a ticket. See?"

The blond, blue-eyed boy fitted the runaway's description, but he was so confident and self-assured that the detectives hesitated to detain him.

While they hesitated, the train pulled out, with George aboard.

In Memphis, George reached his destination safely, clutching the doll for Peggy.

They spent an inseparable day. Meanwhile, Peggy's stepfather, Bruns McCarrall, a Memphis detective, notified the McLeans and George's mother came by plane to bring him home.

Doctor Late, Policeman 'Officiates' at Birth

LOUISVILLE, KY. — "All in the day's work" was the midwifery job of Patrolmen R. E. Loid and Kenneth Smith when a son was born to Mrs. L. Cox.

Answering an emergency call, the officers found the Cox home dark because of a power failure, and the father wringing his hands because the doctor had not arrived.

Patrolman Loid, who previously had aided in the delivery of seven babies, took charge with the aid of a flashlight.

Later, at a hospital where the mother and baby were taken, hospital attaches said both were in fine condition and praised the officer's work.

This Automobile Driver Knows Horn; and Thief

TAMPA, FLA. — Charles Epps sat reading a newspaper in his home when an automobile horn blast shattered his thoughts.

"Very familiar," he reflected. He went to his parked automobile and began following the auto with the loud horn, pausing only to pick up a policeman.

The car with the loud horn stopped at the home of J. B. Bass. So did Epps and the policeman. A few minutes of questioning and Bass admitted he had taken the horn and a pair of fog lights from Epps' car, five tires and two more horns from other motorists.

Japan's Problem of 'Saving Face' at Home and Keeping Out of Trouble With U.S....
Censorship and Reuben
James Incident Discussed.

(Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.)

WASHINGTON. — Some careful students of the Far Eastern situation are convinced that the real rulers of Japan have decided to provoke a war with the United States, although they—the rulers of Japan—are confident that such a war would result in a Japanese defeat.

This extraordinary view becomes easier to understand when it is explained, though there is no thought here of trying to convince anybody that it is an accurate picture of the thinking of the men who are deciding things in Tokyo. No one in Washington pretends really to know about that. We can only speculate on the facts in hand.

But here is the theory: First we must give the proper weight to the Far Eastern notion about face-saving. Also that it is better to die gloriously than to live ignominiously. With that as the premise of the calculation, we then proceed to the present situation, which is that Japan has been failing badly in China, though she had a tremendous success in aggression in Indo-China.

The latter is highly important in the long-range view, and in economics when the world war is over. But it was not a triumph out of which the army and navy could take any satisfaction. It was achieved simply and solely because Germany ordered France to let the Japanese have what they wanted.

Then, having obtained through her ties with Berlin in Indo-China what she had failed utterly to obtain by her own arms in China proper, and with a gateway opened to Singapore and the Far Eastern islands of Holland which Japan has so long coveted, Nippon finds the way blocked by what amounts to a threat of war from the United States.

Japanese Strategy

Japan has been waiting and hoping for two things—first that Russia would crumble under the Nazi blows, and be able to offer no resistance to Japanese aggression in the maritime provinces of eastern Siberia; and second, that the United States would become so involved in the Atlantic that Japan could risk aggression to the South. Complete defeat of Russia would also mean that Britain would again have to face the fight of her life, in North Africa, in the region to the north of Iran, and possibly on her own soil.

She is still waiting, but there is no assurance that Russia will not be able to resist on her Pacific coast no matter what happens in Europe. (Japan probably made her recent border attack to feel out that situation.) And there is every indication that Uncle Sam would get very busy if Japan goes after what she really wants.

So—stretched to the breaking point by her efforts up to now—and unable to satisfy any of the elements of her population by her achievements, the rulers may decide to gamble. There is 1 chance in 10, or 20—however they figure it—that the United States navy could be defeated and the Philippines overrun. That would make Singapore and the Dutch East Indies easy picking, assuming the Jap fleet were still strong and the British still busy elsewhere.

But if the Jap fleet were crushed, if bombers ravaged Japanese inflammable cities and blew up her oil supply (all of which is above ground since the 1923 earthquake), then Japan would be able to quit with honor! She could depend on the United States to make fair terms of peace. And nobody would lose face!

Reuben James Incident And Censorship

Censorship is generally exasperatingly stupid. It is the stupidity, far more than that natural desire of any government to cover up its blunders from an inquiring press, which causes newspaper men to worry about it.

So it will seem strange that the writer should advocate more drastic censorship than we are having, so far as one particular kind of news is concerned.

But—why was the sinking of the Reuben James announced when it was? Why could not the news of that sinking have been delayed until a complete list of the saved could have been announced along with it?

The moment the sinking was announced the mothers, fathers, sweethearts and friends of the boys on board the ill-fated destroyer received a blow that would be difficult to exaggerate. Then came the word, some six or seven hours later, that 44 enlisted men had been rescued. Accompanying this was the assurance that this did not mean hope should be abandoned for the other enlisted men, nor for the officers.

'They Got Me Covered'

Is Funniest Book of Year

A NEW all-around champion has been crowned in the entertainment world. He is Bob Hope. Not satisfied with being rated tops on the radio, Number One in screen box office receipts, he is author of one of the nation's best sellers, which just about nails down this triple crown for Bob. "They Got Me Covered," Hope's autobiography, has been claimed by critics and readers alike as one of the year's funniest books. It is a hilarious story, in narrative form, of Bob Hope's life, generously illustrated with photographs, in addition to having cartoons depicting scenes from his life.

The book is now available at drug and department stores throughout America at 10 cents per copy with the purchase of a Pepsodent product. This low price is possible because the sale of the book has been sponsored by the Pepsodent Company.—Adv.

OVER 50?

Constipated?

Most of us find that age and living habits bring on occasional bowel-laziness. These spells of constipation, with aggravating gas, may cause restless nights. ADLERIKA can help you face the future more cheerfully. Its ingredients attract to the bowels extra moisture which softens packed wastes and assists in comfortable bowel action. ADLERIKA helps to leave your bowels refreshed and clean. Next time constipation and gas threaten your comfort, try ADLERIKA. Druggists have it.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery. Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination. There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

TEACHING A CHILD VALUE OF PENNIES

A child of a wise mother will be taught from early childhood to become a regular reader of the advertisements. In that way better perhaps than in any other can the child be taught the great value of pennies and the permanent benefit which comes from making every penny count.

Here's a youth a mite too young to have an entry in this year's exposition but he's busy helping his father, Allan Atkinson of Wilson, Ill., get a pure-bred Shorthorn ready for competition representing the Edellyn Farms, one of Illinois' 1941 record entries.

Scrap Iron on Farms

Sought for 'Defense'

WASHINGTON. — The department of agriculture has announced that farmers throughout the country will be asked to sell their scrap metal for use in defense production.

Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard has requested U. S. department of agriculture defense boards in each state to make plans for their states immediately and enlist in the county defense boards in the effort.

"The National Defense program is seriously threatened by actual and impending shortages of iron and steel scrap," Mr. Wickard said. "In addition, civilian shortages of steel including metal for farm implements and parts needed by farmers will be more severe if steel mills cannot be kept running at capacity. Farms have long been one of the most important sources of scrap metal. Therefore it is a patriotic duty to see that the scrap should be made available for use," added the secretary.

Vanished Men

By GEORGE MARSH

Penn. Publishing Co.
W.N.U. Service

THE STORY SO FAR: Six men traveled the Chibougamau trail and six men died. Later they were reported drowned. Murder is suspected. Garry Finlay, brother of one of the six; Red Malone, mounted police officers,

Before the three men could drop to the beach below, where the canoe lay, there was the sound of something approaching over the shore path.

"Club 'em with your gun, Blaise! Don't make a noise!"

"Here dey are!"

With the impact of a sledge-hammer Red's clubbed .45 dropped the first man senseless. Finlay's heavy pistol glanced from the face of the next and he fell with a scream. In his surprise the third Montagnais fired his rifle in the air as a blocky body lunged into him carrying him to the ground. But the damage was done. The bush was now full of yelling Montagnais headed for the sounds.

"Launch the canoe, Blaise, while we stand them off!" cried Finlay.

As the Peterboro shot past the point and into the moonlight a canoe broke from the shore shadows to bar their path.

"Everyone down!" warned Garry.

The three paddlers flattened as spurts of flame leaped from the birchbark. But in the half-light the aim from the moving boat was poor.

"Don't shoot! Run 'em down!" ordered Finlay.

The Peterboro leaped to the drive of the maple blades. With a crash the bow of the wooden craft knifed through the birchbark, amidships, rolling her under with its momentum. Before they could fire again the three Montagnais were in the water. With a lunge of his long stern blade Blaise pushed the filled shell of the birchbark clear of the Peterboro's stern. Then the maple paddles bowed as the three friends drove their craft through the moonlit water and into the protecting shadows of the opposite shore.

"Close shave!" panted Finlay, "but we made it!"

CHAPTER XVIII

Late that night, when Wabistan's canoe found the hidden camp of the police, the eyes of the old Indian glittered with triumph.

"You not hurt?" he asked, squinting into the faces of his friends as they wrung his hand.

"Not a scratch, chief!" Red patted the old man's shoulder.

"I'm glad we got clear of that canoe without using our guns," said Finlay. "Too many men have been shot here this summer."

"But it was their lives or ours, Garry. Tete-Blanche and his whiskey-fed crew would snuff us out as they would a candle!"

"I know, but headquarters may not see it that way. I'm sorry it had to be done."

With Flame and young Patamish, who was devoted to Finlay and would be useful as a scout, the Peterboro started at once through the islands, hugging the shadows of the western shores, for the moon was now low on the ridges.

The following night they reached their old camp and Patamish started with Finlay's message. Before dawn Garry was waked by something pulling at his blanket.

"Patamish!" whispered the boy. "I find dis undair stone."

Finlay's hand shook as he took the note, lit a candle lantern and read:

"Dearest:

"It has seemed so long—this waiting for you. Blondell is expected now, any day. Everyone except Jules and Labelle are at the head of the lake. I tried to learn what was happening there, but could not. They haven't returned. Jules is drinking hard. Corinne heard him tell Labelle that if you saw that plane arrive from the North and got away with the information, the jig was up. I don't understand for he knows that people in Montreal suspect he's shipping gold south by plane. That's no secret. I've tried to avoid him but he's cornered me last night and said: 'You'll never see your friend again. He's walked into a trap, nosing around this lake. We'll take care of him this time. So, when Felix comes, you'd better agree to marry him. He's got plenty stowed away in Montreal—can give you anything you want. If you won't be reasonable, you can take the consequences.'

"Dearest, I'll not stay a day after that plane arrives. I'll take Louis and camp somewhere in the bush. Send for me! Oh, send for me! Let me know, quick, that nothing's happened to you! With all my love,

"Lise."

"You went to the post to find Mikis?" asked Finlay. He could feel the drumbeat of his heart in his throat.

"Ah-hah! Mikis was gone. Something strange was there, on de water!"

"On the water?" The news he dreaded hit Finlay like the chill of ice. "What was it?"

"Beeg cano' wid wing like guil!" In his remorse Finlay crushed Lise's note in his hand. Blondell's plane had reached Waswanipi!

He found a scrap of paper and wrote:

INSTALLMENT EIGHTEEN

and Blaise, half-breed guide, posing as surveyors, arrive at Nottaway to investigate. Isadore, rich fur man, is thought to have made a gold strike and aims to keep prospectors out. Later they visit Isadore at his magnificent home and

"Just got your note! I'll wait at the nearest island, tonight, tomorrow and every night following, for your canoe. Courage! I love you!"

"Garry."

That night, before the twilight died, Finlay and Red lay in the thick alders of the shore of the island opposite Isadore's with binoculars focused on the anchored sea-plane and the post. Later, lights, like stars, glowed in the trade-house and the living quarters. The lights died. Hour after hour the two men waited. But Lise did not come.

"She'll come tonight, Garry. Don't worry."

"Somehow we've got to learn why that plane comes here from James Bay before we go after Isadore."

"We know she carries flake gold and nuggets from the river bars when she finally heads south. Isadore admitted that to McNab, at Matagami."

"Get shot for our pains and, besides, spoil the whole show? No, I'm going to learn more about that plane from the Bay first. We can't arrest Isadore without a gun fight."

"Very good, Sergeant Finlay! What are the orders?" laughed Red.

"You'll get them, constable, when that plane shows up."

At daylight the faint hum of a plane's engine brought the police from their hidden camp to the shore. Far across the lake, above Isadore's, they saw a sea-plane spiraling for altitude.

"They'll make it hot for us, now."

The plane started for the outlet, twenty miles to the west, and, later appeared following the south shore.

"Tete-Blanche is back with the news and they're out for revenge," said Red. "They'll make it hot for us, now."

The plane passed overhead following the lake shore and the concealed police could see a man leaning from the cockpit searching the shore below with glasses. Shortly it faded into the east.

"It's the middle of August, Red. That plane from the Bay is due."

That night they waited on the shore of the island for Lise's canoe. Hour after hour drifted past but through the murk came no welcome sound of a paddle prying off a gunwale.

Finlay slouched on a stone, head in hands. What had happened to her? She had said she wouldn't stay a day after the plane arrived. She had begged him to send for her. She had had two days to get the note. What had happened to Lise?

He looked at the illuminated face of his watch. It was one o'clock. They had waited five hours. "She won't come tonight, Red," he said, rising.

"No, she won't—" Malone did not finish.

"Hear something?"

"Didn't you? It was pretty faint—might have been a loon!"

The two men stood rigid—with checked breaths.

They paddled hard for a minute, then stopped to listen. Suddenly out of the gloom, ahead, wavered the cry: "Gar-ree! Gar-ree! Help!"

Eyes stabbing the gloom in search of the crippled canoe, the two men approached the sound.

"Where are you, Lise? Where's your boat?"

"Here I am,—here!" There was a faint splash off the bow of the canoe and Finlay's straining eyes caught the dim outlines of a head and bare shoulder.

"Hold it, Red!" he cried. "She's here—swimming! Steady the boat while I get her!"

"But your canoe? Why did you try to swim it?"

"I had to swim! They hid the canoe! I—I couldn't stay! I thought I'd never make it!"

"Why did you do it? It was too—"

With a laugh she threw back her head and kissed him. "That's why!"

meet Lise, his stepdaughter. Finlay falls in love with her. Later they land on an island and are attacked by Indians. They learn that Isadore's men are hunting them and tense themselves as they hear the gunmen approaching.

"Because I love you!" she whispered, while Red paddled hard for the camp.

"Oh, my dear! My dear!" murmured Garry, shielding her body with his own from the night air.

"I've worried so—been half mad!"

"It was too terrible, there! They're drinking and worried! I had to threaten to shoot Blondell."

"His arms tightened around her. 'Mind? I love it, beautiful!'"

"You seem to!" she laughed up at him. Then she called out to Red whose thoughts were far away at Matagami as he drove his long paddle. "Not going to speak, Mr. Malone?"

"It's Red to you, Lise! If you knew how glad I am to have you here! We've been pretty worried! I want to say they don't come any gamer than you!"

"Thanks, Red!"

Blaise stared open-mouthed as Garry led a girl wearing his coat over a one-piece bathing suit up to the fire.

"Blaise, this is Lise. We picked her out of the lake, swimming to the island."

"You swim—in de dark?" demanded the astounded Brassard.

"By gar, you are brave girl! Tiens! She swim from Isadore's in dis black night!"

Shortly the group of men smoking by the fire burst into laughter. Stiff in front of the tent with hand at salute stood a mounted Policeman.

"So you're Mounties? I've wondered what you really were. Jules Isadore has been wondering, too. He's pretty worried about it. Now that I've fallen into the hands of the police, what am I charged with?" she laughed.

"You are charged with the felony of scaring two policemen half to death by swimming to this island, young woman."

"I had to." For a space her face was serious, then a smile broke through as Finlay handed her a steaming cup of tea.

The others left Lise and Garry by the fire while she told him her story.

"Since Felix Blondell came it's been hellish, Garry. They do nothing at night but drink and quarrel. I've learned what I could from Corinne. She's absolutely petrified. When Tete-Blanche returned, Jules was mad with rage at what happened. It seems Kinebik is dead. Did you know that?"

Garry's arm tightened about her waist. "Yes, I know it."

"Well, Tete-Blanche brought back a lot of drunken young Indians to hunt for you. Blondell is getting scared. He wants to return south."

"They're anxious about that plane from the Bay. It's overdue. They think, now, that that's what you came here for—to get that plane. Corinne asked Blondell if that was the plane that carried the gold south and he looked at her queerly and said: 'Yes, it carries the gold. That's what these people are here for, to highjack it, but we've got enough men here to shoot them out of their canoes if they try that.' Garry, you're not going to try to take Isadore—just you three, are you? He's got a lot of Indians over there and he's desperate."

He drew her red-coated shape close and kissed the velvet eyes that searched his bronzed face. "Don't worry about that, Lise. You don't think I'm going to risk losing you when I've only just got you here—safe?"

CHAPTER XIX

The following night six canoes drifted silently up to the hidden police camp. It was Wabistan and his friends. Finlay decided that it was time to reveal his identity to the old man. He drew him to one side with Blaise.

"Tell Wabistan who we are, Blaise, and why we are here."

The eyes of the old chief glowed like black tourmalines.

"Wabistan navare forget. He come to help his friend."

"We must wait until the flying canoe comes from the North," said Finlay. "Then we'll go to Isadore's."

"Yes, we wait," agreed the old man. "We wait." He turned to Blaise and spoke rapidly in Montagnais.

"Wabistan say he go to Matagami for flour, shell and tobacco. He come back in tree-four day. He start now."

On the morning of the fourth day after Wabistan's departure for Matagami, Finlay and Red were watching the post through binoculars from the shore of one of the islands.

"He's got a regiment of Indians over there, Red," said Garry.

"It looks as if we'd bitten off a large chunk of trouble."

"We sure have, Red."

"But we're going in just the same and grab that ship."

"We are, Red."

That night, on returning from the lake with water, Blaise called to Finlay where he sat with Lise by the fire. "Come to de shore! I show you something!"

PRAYER AND THANKSGIVING

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 6:5-15; Ephesians 5:20; 1 Thessalonians 5:16-18.
GOLDEN TEXT—Pray without ceasing. In every thing give thanks.—1 Thessalonians 5:17, 18.

Being one-with Christ, the Christian finds prayer to be as natural as breathing. As he walks with the Master he talks with Him, praises Him, thanks Him, makes his petitions and his needs known to Him. We feel, however, like Christ's disciples who asked Him to teach them to pray (Luke 11:1).

I. Instruction in Prayer

Approaching the subject from the negative viewpoint, Jesus told them 1. How Not to Pray (Matt. 6:5, 7). Prayer, which is the highest privilege of the Christian, is beset by some deadly dangers.

a. No hypocritical performance (v. 5). Some who wished to be seen in prayer managed to be in a conspicuous place at the Jewish hours of prayer (nine, twelve, and three o'clock). There, before a crowd, they put on a prayer "show" for the benefit of the onlooking audience. Such a prayer is designed for the ears of men and never reaches God.

b. No vain repetition (v. 7). We do not need to repeat our petitions. God knows our need (v. 8). When repetition is the outpouring of an earnest and urgent heart it means much, but that is different from just repeating phrases.

2. How to Pray (Matt. 6:8, 14, 15; Eph. 5:20; 1 Thess. 5:16-18). Public prayer is sometimes both necessary and proper, but usually our prayer should be a. In secret (v. 6). When we pray we should be free from distracting influences or personalities. We are talking to God and should give ourselves entirely over to communion with Him.

b. In faith (vv. 6, 8). God knows what we need even though He waits to be inquired of concerning it. He will answer prayer so as to honor His name in our lives and in our testimony before others.

c. With forgiveness (vv. 14, 15). No one who comes before God with an unforgiving spirit toward his brother is ready to ask God for the forgiveness which he himself so greatly needs.

d. With thanksgiving (Eph. 5:20). To give thanks is altogether fitting as we come to God in prayer. Note that we are to be thankful "always" and "for all things," not just when some special blessing or favor has come to us.

e. Without ceasing (1 Thess. 5:16-18). Union with Christ enables us to pray without ceasing, even as He ever prays for us. This does not call for the constant utterance of words, but the moment by moment prayer of a heart and life lifted to Him. With such praying comes constant rejoicing (v. 16).

II. A Model of Prayer (Matt. 6:9-13).

The prayer which our Lord taught His disciples was intended to be a model rather than a form of prayer. We may repeat it, however, if we put into it the prayer of our hearts.

1. God and His Glory (vv. 9, 10).

Recognizing Him as our Father to whom we may and must come for all things, we in all humility ascribe all honor to Him. Then we pray that His kingdom may come, not only in the future (and we look forward to it!), but now, in our own hearts. The true believer wants the will of God done in his own life and throughout the earth, even as it is perfectly done in heaven.

This prayer begins at the proper point. A right relationship with God brings true blessing on earth. The one who prays is now ready to present to God

2. Man and His Needs (vv. 11-13).

Daily bread is mentioned first, for without it life could not continue. This is the constant need of man, and his great struggle. God is able for that problem, and only He is able. Unless He gives "seed to the sower and bread to the eater" (Isa. 55:10) we are gone.

But man has even greater spiritual needs. Sin needs forgiveness, weakness needs strength, the power of the enemy of our souls calls for deliverance. Again God is able and ready to hear man's prayer.

One of the sad things about the study of prayer is that we are all so ready to talk about it, discuss it, even preach about it, and then do so little praying. Knowing how to pray, and admiring a model of prayer, will profit us nothing, unless we pray.

Good Work Never Fails

So, then, Elijah's life had been no failure after all. Seven thousand at least in Israel had been braced and encouraged by his example, and silently blessed him, perhaps, for the courage which they felt. In God's world, for those who are in earnest there is no failure. No work truly done, no word earnestly spoken, no sacrifice freely made, was ever made in vain.—F. W. Robertson.

Lighter-Than-Air Ships

There are three general types of lighter-than-air ships, the rigid, the semi-rigid and non-rigid. Some airship authorities divide them into only two types, the pressure airship and the rigid airship. The pressure ship, which includes both the non-rigid and the semi-rigid, maintains its shape and withstands the stresses and strains of flight because of the internal pressure of the lifting gas. The rigid is shaped by its internal structure, over which the fabric is stretched like a skin.

TINLEY SCHOOL NEWS

The Tinley Park School is making preparations for the presentation of a Christmas pageant to be presented in the school auditorium December 19 in the evening. This Pageant will be the combined efforts of the activity groups particularly band, Glee Club and Dramatics groups. The plan calls for every child in school to take an active part in the program.

Most of the children will be in the singing groups. The art classes are preparing to make the necessary scenery for the Pageant.

The pageant itself is being written by a committee of teachers including Mrs. Hesbol, Mrs. Rauhoff, Miss Tully and Miss DeYoung. Costumes are being made by a committee of Mothers who have generously volunteered to help. The program is to be presented to the public and will begin at 8 p.m. There will be no admission charge.

A bulletin has been prepared for parents regarding the care of Library books. In recent weeks many books have been returned in a damaged condition and fines have been assessed. This is an added financial burden to the parents and it is felt that it is to their interest to assist the school in helping the children take good care of the books taken out of the Library. The Tinley Park School has one of the finest Libraries of schools this size and every child, parent and citizen should be kind of the library and the opportunity it gives to children of the community.

The teachers of the Tinley Park school are well under way in their study of the curriculum and many worthwhile information should result which will give further advantages to our children. At the present time reading is being studied with all that it means in the life of every child in school and what it will mean after children leave this school and enter high school. The basis of this study is the welfare of the child so that he may be better equipped to meet the demands placed upon future generations in this changing world.

RHYTHM ROLLERS

This week's column is dedicated to two new Rhythm rollers. I take pleasure in introducing Bob and Harold. Who's fuzzy mittens were wondering around Wednesday night? They couldn't be Pats could they? That Grand March is sure going over, isn't it?

Slipping and sliding lightly gliding Charlie is out there trying.

ORLAND PARK

ORLAND PARK

The November meeting of the Orland Park PTA was held last Thursday evening in the new gym. About 50 members and guests were present.

Mrs. Clarence A. Brown of Riverdale was the speaker who spoke of her work as a Reader-Editor of the Woman's Home Companion. She urged every member to allow themselves the fullest expression of their own individualities to work out their own problems in their home and community life. Mrs. Brown has a broad horizon of experience and perception and possesses a personality and method of expression that enables her to hold the attention of her hearers.

Mr. Harlan spoke very enthusiastically on the prospects of forming a band from among the student body of the school and asked or the co-operation of the parents of the community.

Mr. Rawland introduced the several members of the school faculty and Mr. Betts spoke very interestingly on the new school paper which is being published by the students of the school and distributed copies of the first issue. Mr. Larkin, chairman of the Health Committee reported that a permanent health card file of the student body is nearing completion and Mr. Ellwood, instructor in agriculture and athletic coach, stated that prospects for a winning basketball team were excellent. He announced a schedule of games is practically completed.

Mrs. Reish, membership chairman, reported a membership of 45 and stated that a goal of double that number is in sight. Mrs. Tappenbeck, Mrs. Farr and Mrs. George Yunker are to assist the chairman in enrolling new members.

The association voted to enroll as a member in the American Red Cross. Mr. and Mrs. Callahan of North Palos and Mr. and Mrs. Heiman and Mrs. A. Benson of Mokena were present and joined the association.

Following the meeting refreshments were served by Mesdames Geo. Steinhagen, Earl Reish, John Emanuelson, Thos. Wheeler and Adolph Zerbs.

The PTA will sponsor a card and bunco party in the Orland Park school December 5th at 8 p.m. Refreshments will be served. The proceeds of this affair will go to aid the new school band. Everyone is invited. Mrs. Paul Oelke is chairman of the committee in charge of this affair and will welcome any assistance from the members.

The W. S. C. S., of the Methodist church will meet Thursday, Dec. 4th instead of Nov. 27th as originally scheduled. Mrs. Lester Kay, chairman of the bake sale held Nov. 15 at Loebe Brothers store, reports the sale a big success and wishes to thank the members who contributed toward this sale.

The RNA will hold their regular meeting Thursday November 27 in Legion Hall. Juveniles meet the same day at 4 p.m.

Harvey camp RNA invites the Laurel Camp to their Past Oracles and Guest Nite November 21 at 8 p.m. Mrs. Lynn Edgett, State Supervisor for Northern Illinois and Mrs. Margaret Gorman, chairman Board of Supreme Managers will be guests of honor. An invitation has also been received to attend the Guest nite of Tinley Park camp Tuesday evening, November 25.

Mrs. Chas. Maddox has received word that her brother Robt. A. Withall has completed his 13 weeks of basic training with Battery C 8th Battalion at Camp Fort Eustis near Newport News, Va., and has been made an acting corporal. Mr. Withall is a graduate of the Morgan Park Military Academy.

Roy Ekroth, brother of Mrs. Clarence Stigers, who has spent the last 6 months in construction work on defense bases in Puerto Rico, will leave for the Island of Trinidad November 24.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Town left Tuesday for Bellevue, Ohio to attend the funeral of Mrs. John Hillhouse wife of Mrs. Town's brother.

Mrs. Ellsworth Uthe and infant son Kenneth Allen have returned from Silver Cross hospital and are making things lively around the home of grandpa and grandma, Earl and Mollie Reish.

Monday afternoon November 17 about 130 representatives of the various Methodist churches of the Chicago area were entertained by the staff of the Goodwill Industries and were given an opportunity to inspect the plant. The Orland Park representatives were Rev. and Mrs. H. L. Brett, Mrs. Thomas Cooper, Mrs. Chas. Cooper and Mrs. S. S. Knox. So don't throw away old chairs, clothes or whatever it is. Put it aside and call Mrs. Knox so she can have the truck stop on its semi-annual or quarterly pickup schedule. Senior choir rehearsal Friday at 8 p.m. in the Methodist church. Come out and help with the special Christmas music.

ORLAND HIGH SCHOOL

Last Wednesday the students of the Orland Community High school had the pleasure of seeing a very interesting display at the school. Not only were they allowed to see these instruments but also to try their luck at playing these horns. At the end of the day it was very evident that there was plenty of enthusiasm to warrant the organization of a beginning school band. At the evening meeting over forty parents and children showed their interest in getting into band work.

At the meeting Mr. Harlan told how a band could contribute very largely to the educational program and told of some of the plans for the high school. Mr. Brown, in charge of the exhibit told the parents about the trial rental program which is available to them. Under this plan the pupils can rent the instrument for a three month trial period before he has to make his final choice as to whether he is interested and capable of playing in the band. Mr. Rawland spoke briefly.

Students are now making arrangements to get their instruments. The instruction will start the week following Thanksgiving holidays. Many parents and townspeople have already promised their cooperation in helping to get this worth while activity started. The PTA is already planning a party to raise money for the band.

In addition to the list of Freshmen and Sophomores the following students in the Senior and Junior High School also made honor marks on the music test:

Robt. Arnold, Howard Braasch, Shirley Braasch, Lilas Cooper, Mabel Perry, Ruth See, Virginia See, Willie Heim, Bob Homering, Roland Lock, Edw. Manning, Angelo Mele, Muriel Morlock, Marion Peters, Robt. Scharff, Marilyn Stigers, Laverne Sucharski, Eugene Uthe, Hilda Zerbs

The Home Basketball games are:

Grant Park, Nov. 14, Mokena, Nov. 18, Oswego, Dec. 9, Minooka, Dec. 16, Norville, Dec. 19, Grant Park, Jan. 9, Crete, Jan. 16, Plainfield, Jan. 24, Matteson, Feb. 6, Beecher, Feb. 13.

Out of town games: Manhattan, Nov. 21, Mokena, Nov. 28, Minooka, Dec. 5, Crete, Dec. 12, Yorkville, Jan. 17, Beecher, Jan. 23, Oswego, Jan. 27, Plainfield, Feb. 7.

CARD OF THANKS

We sincerely thank all our relatives, neighbors and friends for the many acts of kindness and sympathy shown us in our recent bereavement and especially thank Rev. A. Lach for his comforting words, those who sent floral offerings, Miss Betty Habenicht for her music, and all those who so kindly donated the use of their cars.

Mrs. A. W. Douglas of Chicago attended the dinner party Sunday evening given at the Richard Wille home in honor of their first wedding anniversary. The occasion was also the 1st birthday of Mrs. Wille. She also visited at the Fred W. Stuckey home.

A bridal shower honoring Miss Viola Rehberg was given Friday evening by Miss Ethel Weitendorf and Miss Isabelle Harmening, assisted by their mothers in the Harmening home.

Cootie was played at twelve tables prizes going to Mesdames Ann Baird, Florence Becker, and Bernice Kruse mark. Duplicate prizes were presented the honored guest. Refreshments were served to fifty guests at two long tables covered with linen cloths with pink and blue tapers in crystal holders at each end of the tables.

The centerpiece were two large pink and blue cellophane hearts, in front of the hearts were figures of a bride and groom. Directly behind the hearts was a huge bridal cake. Individual baskets with heart handles tied with gold bells and wedding rings served as favors. The rooms were decorated with blue and pink tapers and a large wedding bell with large bouquets of pink and white winter asters. The bride to be received many beautiful gifts.

The Womans club held its monthly meeting in the home of Mrs. Bickley last Thursday. The president, Mrs. Herbert Folkers presided. The following program with Mrs. Edw. Warning as chairman was given:

Christmas in Mexico by Mrs. Walter Pfaff, Discussion of Auto Repairs by the members. A reading on Garden Flowers to Wear by Mrs. Henry Breidert. An article on Improve Yourself in Posture and Exercise by Mrs. Conrad Otter.

The Roll call was presented by a "Gadget for Gift" idea. A grand exhibition of numerous articles of Mexico was on display and enjoyed by all. The social activity was a game relating to Thanksgiving with Mrs. Edw. Vollrath receiving the prize. A delicious luncheon was served by the hostess.

MOKENA SCHOOL NEWS

Primary Room

The third grade boys and girls gave a safety playlet in Mrs. Ferguson's room. They also made safety posters. The mothers visited our room last Friday. Pupils leading the third grade spelling race are: Harold Ambuehl, Gene McGuire, Jimmy Needham, Jackie Hall, Joe Carter, Earle Stellwagon, Jerry Marschke.

Intermediate Room

The pupils of the Intermediate room wish to thank the PTA for sponsoring the trip to the Museum of Science and Industry. Everyone enjoyed the trip and thought the time well spent.

We also wish to thank the mothers for visiting our room during Open House last Friday. We only wish more mothers would have had the opportunity to see what we are doing at school.

The Intermediate Room held their assembly program Wednesday. The program opened with the Pledge of Allegiance followed by a song by the fourth grade. A recitation of Book Friends was given by the 4th grade. A piano trio by Anita Geuther, Dorothy Kohl, and Ursula Thiel followed. A play "Thanksgiving Forever" was given by the 6th grade after which Carroll Benson played a piano solo. A play "The Magic Key" was given by the 5th grade and the program closed with a group of songs by the 5th and 6th grades.

Junior High School

The Junior High School room observed Education Week by picking representatives from their room to entertain the High School room by having Thomas Gunhouse read a composition on the "Value of Education". Patricia Bennett gave a talk on an experiment with leaves and Carol Rhein gave a book report on "Lone Star Rising" by Gertrude Crounfield.

The pupils of this room planted Amaryllis bulbs in flower pots. Two lovely plants were presented to the room by some mothers.

High School

Some of the mothers of the High School room visited us on Visitation Day. The High School room had an exchange with the Jr. High room one day last week in observance of Education Week. They gave illustrated reports on their work and showed maps, graphs and units of work done in geography on coal, petroleum, iron and projects done on "Treasure Island" in Freshman English. We enjoyed the demonstration put on by the Jr. High School pupils in our room.

Sports

The first basket ball game of the season will be with Orland Park on Friday, Nov. 28. There will be three games; the first starting at 7 p. m. Watch the store windows for our basketball posters. A complete schedule of all games will appear in next Friday's issue of The News-Bulletin.

Mrs. Wm. Semmler who has been ill for the past two months, is some what improved.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Oswald left last Wednesday for Glendale, California where they are spending the winter with their daughter Waunita.

They do not expect to return before next May.

NOTICE—The winner of the pillow case awarding sponsored by Mrs. Tyler (formerly Dorothy Kraus of Mokena) was Mrs. R. Guindon of Mokena. I want to thank all those who cooperated with me. Mrs. Thomas Tyler.

The Secretary of the Navy has announced:—"All men now enlisting in the Naval Reserve will be retained on active Navy duty throughout the period of the national emergency, but they will be released to inactive duty as soon after the emergency as their services can be spared, regardless of the length of time remaining in their enlistment."

Chicken a la King for Fifty
(See Recipes Below.)

Church Supper Ideas

What is so gay as a grand, big get-together full of informal fun, the hum of pleasant conversation and plenty of good food thrown into the bargain? A church supper, of course!

The fun will take care of itself and the food—well, almost if you get the right amount of it, for the cooking's as simple as only simple can be. Chicken's a treat any way you serve it, but very easy to prepare and serve if you do it this time-tried, old-fashioned, favorite way ladled out of a big kettle with plenty of cream sauce onto feathery light hot biscuits:

Chicken or Turkey a la King.
(Serves 50)

- 4 4-pound chickens, stewed, then cut meat into pieces
- Or
- 1 18-pound turkey, stewed or roasted, meat diced
- 1 pound fat (chicken or turkey fat and butter mixed)
- 4 cups flour
- 2 gallons scalded milk
- 1 pound fresh mushrooms or 2 large cans
- 2 tablespoons minced onion
- 1½ teaspoons or more salt
- ¾ teaspoon white pepper
- 1½ teaspoons paprika
- 2 sweet green peppers, chopped (optional)
- 2 pimientos, chopped (optional)
- ½ cup egg yolks (6 eggs)

Melt about three-fourths of the fat, add the flour, and blend thoroughly; add scalded milk, stirring rapidly with a wire whisk to keep well mixed. Cook until starch taste is gone—about 10 minutes. Cook the mushrooms, sliced, in remaining fat, until delicately browned and add to sauce with the onion. Beat egg yolks and mix with a small amount of the hot mixture to blend and add to the sauce, stirring thoroughly. Cook 4 or 5 minutes more. Add turkey meat. Season to taste (with paprika and pepper mixed into salt). Add peppers and pimiento, if used. Serve on hot biscuits.

The simplest way to prepare the chickens is to cook them in seasoned water, to which a small onion, 2 carrots and a small bunch of celery are added. Chickens are handled best if disjointed and the breast and back sections cut into convenient-sized pieces.

Baking Powder Biscuits.

(Serves 50)

- 4 pounds flour
- ¾ cup double-acting baking powder
- 2 tablespoons salt
- 1 pound shortening (2½ cups)
- 5 cups milk

Sift the dry ingredients together, add fat and mix lightly. Make a well in the center and add the milk.

LYNN SAYS:

Attractive salads pep up meals besides adding nourishment plus to menus. Salads in winter are a little hard to plan because of the scarcity of fresh fruits and vegetables, so I suggest you try these for solving your salad problem:

Prunes stuffed with cream cheese and nuts, served with orange sections and lettuce.

Cooked beets and cooked carrots diced with celery, mixed with mayonnaise.

Orange sections served with tiny cream cheese balls. Marinate oranges in french dressing first.

Canned pineapple and fresh oranges served in alternate sections on lettuce. Alternating orange and grapefruit sections are a good idea, too.

Chunks of lettuce with crumbled hard-cooked egg and a few leftover peas, tossed together with salad oil, salt, pepper, vinegar.

THIS WEEK'S MENU

- *Chicken a la King
- *Scalloped Potatoes
- *Sunset Salad
- Bread and Butter
- Assorted Cakes
- *Coffee

*Recipe given

Mix just until the dough holds together. Divide dough into fourths and make ¼ at a time. Roll on a floured board, pat to ½ inch thickness, cut and place on baking sheet. Bake 12 to 15 minutes in a hot (450 degree) oven until golden brown.

Scalloped Potatoes.
(Serves 50)

- 10 pounds (6 quarts) sliced potatoes
- 2 quarts hot milk
- ½ cup flour
- 1½ cups butter
- 3 tablespoons salt
- 1 tablespoon pepper

Peel potatoes before weighing. Before measuring, peel and slice. If large, cut in two lengthwise before slicing. Into six baking dishes put a layer of potato, then a slight layer of flour, and repeat until all potatoes are used. Dissolve salt, pepper and butter in hot milk. Pour over potatoes, cover and cook in slow oven for 1½ hours or until done.

Best idea for a salad is this one that's made in advance and needs only to be sliced and placed on lettuce leaves for serving. It's as gay and colorful as the get-together itself.

Sunset Salad.

- 18 ounces lemon gelatin
- 2½ quarts hot water and canned pineapple juice
- 1½ quarts grated raw carrots
- 1½ pints canned crushed pineapple, drained
- 2 teaspoons salt

Dissolve gelatin in hot water and pineapple juice which has been heated to 130 degrees F. Chill. Combine carrots, pineapple and salt. When mixture is slightly thickened, fold in carrot and pineapple mixture. Turn into individual molds. Chill until firm. Unmold on crisp lettuce. Garnish with mayonnaise and grated carrots. Makes 32 portions.

Just in case you want to make up a church supper menu of your own, I'm listing additional recipes:

Meat Loaf.

- 10 pounds ground round steak
- 2 pounds ground pork or salt pork
- 4 eggs
- ½ pound bread crumbs
- 2 onions
- 2 tablespoons salt
- 2 teaspoons pepper

1 quart cold mashed potatoes
1 quart milk or canned tomatoes
Mix thoroughly, mold into five loaves, and bake in a moderate oven 350 degrees F., until done. Makes 50 servings.

Boiled Coffee.
(Serves 50)

- 1½ pounds coffee (6¼ cups)
- 2½ gallons water
- 2 eggs

Mix shells, whole eggs and 1 additional cup of cold water with coffee. When the water comes to a boil, add the coffee egg mixture which has been tied in a bag, to the boiling water, and boil for 3 to 5 minutes. Test for strength. When ready, remove bag, let coffee stand 10 to 15 minutes before serving.

The wife of one of our famous football coaches, Mrs. Lou Little, likes to serve a simple but hearty meal after the game. Jot this one down as an idea for an after the game supper or church supper idea: Hot mulled cider, casserole of pork and beans, buttered hot date-nut bread, celery, pickles, and chili sauce; jellied cole slaw; doughnuts and coffee.

For the casserole, used canned pork and beans with tomato sauce; heat in the oven about 20 minutes. As a decoration use half slices of date-nut bread. Put them around the top of the beans for 5 minutes before the casserole comes out from the oven.

Too Much Proof

By JAMES FREEMAN

(Associated Newspapers—WNU Service.)

OFFICER MIKE STROM had left his beat and was on his way home when the clamor of the City National bank's burglar alarm brought him up short.

It was early in the morning and the streets were almost deserted. Mike glanced toward the police alarm box a half block away and decided it was too far. He began running toward the bank, reaching for the service gun in its holster.

He was within a hundred yards of the bank when the machine gun began to rattle.

Policeman Strom crumpled up, clutching his abdomen. He gasped and rolled back to the sidewalk and suddenly lay still, a look of mortal agony on his face.

The town was suddenly still. No one seemed able to grasp exactly what was happening. The machine gun stopped its staccato patter and the bonging burglar alarm continued to shrill in the bright, still air.

Across the way a man shouted incoherently. The shout was taken up by others and added to by the hysterical scream of a woman. Someone darted into a nearby store and asked the frightened clerk to lend him a gun. The clerk stared bewilderingly and dumbly shook his head.

Outside, across the street, two men had stepped through the bank door and were descending the steps. One of them held a sub-machine gun under his arm. The other carried a heavy canvas bag. They moved quick and alert toward the black sedan which waited at the curb, with engine idling and a driver at the wheel.

Spectators shook off the spell that had held them in its grim clutches as the sedan roared down the street. They shouted and gestured and began to mill about. Some distance away the black sedan had slowed for a corner, and as it turned into a deserted side street, a policeman appeared on the curb.

A series of orange lances streamed from the sedan's interior. The policeman stumbled back against the brick wall of a building, slid slowly to the sidewalk with blood staining his jacket.

During the week that followed the bank robbery and double murder at Colton, at least thirty suspects were taken into custody, ques-

Hayes nodded. "Hello, Ernie. Get ready to leave. You and Victor are wanted for the Colton job."

"Don't talk foolishness, Hayes. Do you think we'd be fools enough to hang around here if we pulled that one?"

"I think you're smart enough to roost right under our noses," Hayes replied sharply. "Boys, search the room."

The two officers went about the business of searching. Nerdon and Ernie Redmond reclined easily, smoked cigarettes and smiled. Their airs of assurance, Hayes knew, were designed to be upsetting, which indeed they were, though not for a single instant did he permit this fact to show in expression or word.

The search revealed, besides personal belongings, about $2,000 in cash. No weapons were uncovered, no evidence that would connect the youths with the Colton affair other than the money. But the money, Hayes hoped, would be enough. He compared the serial numbers on the bills with those he had jotted down on a notebook.

"Looks bad, boys," he said. "These bills are some of those taken from the Colton bank."

Nerdon and Redmond arched their brows in polite surprise. "Are they?" said Redmond. "Well, that's not anything to be alarmed at. We won that money at the horse races at Morton Park. The robbers must have been up there betting."

"Yes," Hayes agreed, "they must have. You boys, I suppose, attended the races on the day of the hold-up?"

"As a matter of fact, we did," said Ernie.

"Any luck?"

"Splendid. We cleaned up $500 each."

Hayes' heart was thumping against his ribs. But outwardly his face was serene and calm. "I suppose you can prove you were at the races?"

Nerdon and Redmond exchanged confident glances and smiled. "Yes, Inspector," said Redmond, "we can. Sorry to disappoint you like this, but I guess you're barking up the wrong tree." The youth reached into his vest pocket and produced a pair of pari-mutuel tickets, which he handed over to the officer. "Look those over. They're dated June 16, which was the day of the holdup. And if you're interested you might consult the race track officials. They'll tell you that those horses paid $500 each. We were lucky that day, Inspector."

Inspector Hayes sighed deeply and with relief. He had been afraid that all his careful work of the past three weeks was going to prove fruitless. Even in that moment he pictured the newspaper headlines that would restore the public's faith in the police department.

He stood up, nodding to the officers. "Drape some handcuffs on 'em, boys. We'll talk this over again down at headquarters." And when Nerdon and Redmond suddenly sat erect and looked indignant, he smiled, easily, confidently. "It's all right boys. No need to get excited. I have all the evidence I need. You see," he glanced down at the pari-mutuel tickets, "these winning tickets tell the story. I should think you boys would know with all your experience, that pari-mutuel tickets have to be turned in at the track, if they're winners, in order to collect on 'em. If you boys won $500 each on the day of the holdup and collected on it, you wouldn't have the tickets to show."

Twins Lead Hazardous Existence During Birth

There are two kinds of twins: one-egg (identical) and two-egg (fraternal). One-egg twins are the result of the division of a single fertilized egg, are therefore duplicate editions of the same person. They are always of the same sex. "Two-egg twins are derived from two independent eggs fertilized by two sperms and are related to each other in exactly the same way as are ordinary brothers and sisters."

Twins lead a hazardous existence before and during birth. In the uterus they are crowded. Many are born prematurely, many are injured at birth. About one-quarter of all twins born die in the first ten days of life. "Extensive studies of twins of all ages," says Professor Newman, "have revealed a higher frequency of mental defectives among twins than among the singly born." But if they escape the hazards of infancy, twins "are as capable as are singly born pupils in the same schools."

Siamese twins are identical twins who are not completely separated. "True Siamese twins consist of two nearly complete individuals united obliquely side by side in the hip region. Internally there are two complete sets of viscera, except that there is usually a common rectum." Their organs are symmetrical, one heart slanting to the right, the other to the left. But for some mysterious reason, they are often very unlike in facial features and personality.

There have been 13 sets of Siamese twins known to medical history. The original "Siamese" were Chang and Eng (really Chinese), born in Siam in 1811.

Age-Group of Crime

The Federal Bureau of Investigation has found that one of every three persons arrested for robbery is under 21, and one of every two who commit burglary is under 21. More 19-year-olds are arrested than any other age-group, while 33.3 per cent of the total number of people arrested are under 25 years of age.

Keen Sense of Smell

Arctic foxes, when their sense of smell is enhanced by hunger, can detect food at great distances. Not long ago, a Spitzbergen hunter, after having caught an animal in a trap baited with a ptarmigan, went back over the fox's tracks in the snow and found that it had scented the bait five miles away and, changing its course, traveled in a straight line to the frozen bird.

The card and turkey party sponsored by the Civic club and held last Saturday night at the Village hall was a great success. People came from all the surrounding towns and report having a fine time. Folks that were lucky enough to get one of the fine turkeys were "tickled pink." The Civic club wishes to thank everyone who in any way helped make this party a success, and to give others not as fortunate as us a chance to have an enjoyable Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Redding and daughter Joyce of Chicago were Saturday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Powell.

Another date for all to keep in mind—that is if one likes something good to eat, and who doesn't—is December 4. On that night starting at 6 p. m., the Men's club will give a Rib Roast Dinner at the Palos Community church. Prices are moderate. So put another big red mark on your calendar and plan to attend this dinner. So, Dad, this is the time to take Mother away from her duties in the kitchen and give her a treat by taking her to this dinner. I am sure neither one of you will be disappointed.

Mrs. Elsie Robson and infant daughter, Mrs. Herbert Robson and Mrs. Violet Hahn of Chicago were visitors at the J. L. Mains home one day last week.

The McCord school has three new pupils. Earl and Erlene Murray (twins) in the eighth grade and Francis Murray in fourth. They recently moved from Lemont to the Ted Kramer house on 131st street.
